

ART OF DEMOCRACY: 2019 ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM

9 A.M. TO 7 P.M.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21 | K-STATE STUDENT UNION

Join us for a day of presentations and performances that examine what we observe and aspire to in our democracy. Community and campus presenters from the arts, humanities, and sciences offer their distinct reflections on the literal and figurative Art of Democracy. Dr. Lynnette Overby, nationally awarded choreographer, educator and advocate for community arts engagement, will offer the opening keynote address. Professor Kevin Willmott, internationally acclaimed film director and Oscar winning co-writer of BlackKkKlansman, will deliver the closing keynote. A Living History performance, visual arts exhibits, video, dance, and several discussion panels will be featured in break-out sessions throughout the day. Attendees are encouraged to participate in workshops, policy forums, live-streamed interviews, and an engagement game.

The symposium is free
but seating is limited.
